In my opinion, one of the reasons why your friend doesn't like living in big cities is the constant noise and pollution. People in cities have problems with sleep because of cars. As well as cities lack fresh air, as there is few greenery.

The second reason why your friend hates cities may be hustle and bustle. Nowadays, it is especially difficult to get around in cities if you don't have your own car.

In the diagram we see that 73% of teens are on social networks. Because of the rapid technology progress, more and more people use social networks.

In my opinion, the reason why 37% of teens prefer communicating online is because it is really comfortable, especially when you are on long distances.

The reason why so few Americans use Twitter is because Facebook is way more popular. Furthermore, it is a much better social media.

As I said, Facebook is really popular. So much so that 22% of teens log on it 10 times a day!

Facebook is popular not only amongst teens, though. Lots of kids use it, too.

Probably because ~~you~~ they can play different kinds of video games on Facebook.

It is ~~much~~ easier to find friends in the Internet, than in real <sup>world</sup> life. No wonder why average teen has so many Facebook friends.
