N 4 First of all, she can say that living in a village or countryside is much better for her health. There is a huge problem as air pollution because of cars and factories.

Secondly, she can say that a big city is always crowded with people. It can be not very convenient.

Furthermore, she can live in countryside more peacefully than in a big city. Fast pace of a big city is not for everyone.

v8 Firstly, on this pie chart we can see that 73% of teens are on social network. It means that most of them spend their time surfing the Net. Secondly, 37% of teen messages to friends every day. This shows us that chatting is comfortable for teenagers. We can see that Twitter is popular among American ^{teens} students. Moreover, Facebook is used by 22% of teenagers over ten times per day. That means teenagers really enjoy spending time there. Furthermore, the average amount of friends that teen has on Facebook can tell us a lot. Even an adult doesn't have around 200 friends in real life. That means teens usually find more friends online. They can chat with people sharing same interests.

My hypothesis is that the amount of teens that are using social networks will increase soon because social networks are becoming more and more popular. It is convenient to use them for teens nowadays.
