Task 8.

Modern teenagers, instead of their parents and grandparents, are coming more and more lazy, and it's a fact - every teenagers nowadays will answer, "I'm playing videogames" or "I'm texting online with my friends" on question, "What are you doing now?" After that, researchers decided to know, what other activities are modern teenagers enjoy doing. Scientists provided a diagram, where we can see, what things children like doing nowadays.

The biggest position in the presented diagram is sleeping (thirty percent). It can be because of stress in school - their teenagers' body reacts on it by making them want to sleep. Also, it may be because teenagers are playing games late at night, not giving themselves enough sleep of sleep.

The second position is eating ~~or~~ or studying / doing homework (11.4).

teen percent). Eating is easy thing - body needs energy to do anything, so they eat. There's a lot of percent on studying or doing homework because teachers giving to students a lot of tasks to do.

Third position - only ten percent - is doing sports, phone/texting and sitting online. Teenagers don't have much free time on things they really enjoy to do. That's why this three positions are having the smallest percent of all ~~day~~ diagram.

After thinking and seeing, what things teenagers are doing for all day, I can definitely say, that they are living a boring childhood. They can't go out and play games with friends because of ~~not having~~ ~~not even~~ having a free time or any social skills. That's why there weren't any positions in diagram, connected with ~~the~~ real life friends.
