Task 9

The day everything went wrong (But Ended right)

It was literally in the previous ~~week~~ month. It was in May, I didn't expect anything mad while preparing ^{for} my exams at home. ~~Howe~~ But when it ^{was} ~~became~~ about one o'clock I realised that I had to go to school because it wasn't Sunday, it was already Monday. Next, I ~~ordered~~ a taxi and tried to get to school as soon as it was possible. When I arrived I came upon my friends running into class to pass the exams. I wasn't prepared for it, I even hadn't ~~just~~ ^{brought} a pen or something like this. So my teacher was yelling at me during the whole exam. Closer to the evening I came back home and understood that I hadn't turned off the lights and water, so, when I finally opened the door I was able to observe the floating lake in my home. When I was in a half way ^{through} ~~to~~ cleaning my rooms up for a second, it was for real, my entire family entered ~~my~~ into my home and could see what had happened. Therefore after yelling from the teacher and got punishment ~~from~~ ^{from parents} I ~~realised~~ ^{decided} to go to spend my time sleeping in the bed. By the way, I've got grade five for that ~~exam~~ ^{unprepared} exam. People say every cloud has a silver lining. Even after some ~~dog~~ days we can get good outcomes.
