Task 8)

Essay.

As we can see clearly, the major part of teens use social networks, and the number of them is going to grow, because social medias become more and more popular every year.

Also, many teens message to somebody every day, even though the amount is only 37%. In my opinion, the percent of "writing-messages" teenagers will rise too, as long as many children receive their own phones ~~very~~ regularly. As a by the way, it is obvious that Facebook and ~~Twitter are the most~~ is the most popular app, but 25 percents of teens using it are kids under 10 years old. This shows that this media is turning into a kid children's platform. To continue, only 8% of teens use Twitter, but I suppose that the main reason of a low popularity is that there are lots of politics there, and teens are not interested in that. Back to Facebook, I want to add that teens usually have lots of friends there, which what shows their friendliness and social activity, too.
