Task 7

There are many reasons which she could give. For instance, the friend can't stand the noise of cities and prefers the silence of villages. She probably dislikes air and dirt of a big city. In fact, the pollution of air, soil and water is a common problem there. Maybe all her family live in a village and she wants to be with it or she believes to become a farmer and it is the main dream of her life.

Task 8.

Social networks have become an integral part of our life. A great deal of people have the Internet and use it almost every day.

The diagram shows that 73% of teens are on social networks. Young people have to use them to get school assignments and communicate with friends. It is also the reason why some teens send messages every day.

I reckon Twitter is unpopular as it is not convenient for teenagers. Statistics show that a quarter of Facebook users are under the age of 10. I think many parents just don't let children use it. Some teenagers log on to Facebook over 10 times per day and have more than 200 online friends because they want to chat with people to share their problems and feelings.

I consider social networks are essential to teenagers. They help them to socialize and find out something new about the world.
