Task 7.

Living in a big city is beneficial, however not many people are used to this specific lifestyle. Usually, individuals use public transport to get to their destinations, so tons of traffic jams occur on the roads.

As a rule, air is unclean and environment suffers from the enormous amount of vehicles, what ~~prima~~ primarily affects citizens' health. Furthermore, the cost of life is much higher comparing to other regions.

All of these factors may lead to the disappointment of people.

Task 4

Nowadays internet is a great part of our lives, and teenagers are its regular users.

The presented diagram shows that the majority of teens are registered on social networks, however only thirty-seven percents message their friends daily. It is stated that Facebook is more popular than Twitter, since twenty-two percents of young people log onto Facebook over ten times per day, while only eight percents of Americans use Twitter.

I cannot predict the exact outcome in the future, but teenagers will switch to other internet platforms. It might be Instagram, Reddit or Pinterest. Obviously, the apps are still being developed: their interface is constantly changing and new functions are appearing. All of these innovations may be reasons for the change of trends among young individuals and the usage of other networks.

In conclusion, teenagers spend a lot of time online, communicating with friends through social networks. Yet, the trending apps may change soon.
