Task 7.

The reasons that your friend could give are not having internet, not having mass market fashion stores and the absence of shopping malls in general. Your friend could also hate living in the countryside because of having to wake up extremely early. In addition to that the countryside might also lack entertainment such as playgrounds, parks and shopping centres, which could also be a reason why your friend hates living there.

Task 8.

The daily activities of teenagers have changed in the past years. Judging from the data that is presented on the pie chart we can tell that young adults have little time for themselves, and I believe that the reason behind this is school.

The diagram shows that most of the teenagers' ~~the~~ time is spent on activities like eating and sleeping. Another time-consuming activity is studying. Teenagers spend so much time on the following three activities that they barely have time for playing sports, videogames and spending time online.

Nowadays academic achievements are more important than they used to be. ~~a few years ago~~. In order to be successful in life you have to ace your exams. Which is why teenagers spend most of their time studying, and the rest sleeping and eating, so that they ~~could~~ have energy to continue learning. A few years ago young adults used to relax and enjoy life, however, with academic achievements becoming important, teenagers have less time for enjoyable activities.
