Task 1.

1. The central character of the story was a boy named Rohan, who was known for his laziness and lack of ambition.
2. Rohan used to waste a lot of time and procrastinate instead of doing tasks. These were his worst habits that prevented him from progressing.
3. When rumours about ~~Mr~~ Mr Gupta arrival were spread widely, Rohan became curious. His curiosity led him to asking Mr. Gupta for guidance.
4. Mr. Gupta was sitting under a large tree when Rohan approached him.
5. To symbolize the importance of time to Rohan Mr. Gupta took an hour glass out of his bag.
6. Villagers learned not only to understand the time, but also to cherish every passing moment.
7. The village appreciated Mr. Gupta's wisdom and Rohan's remarkable life transformation.
8. When Rohan became old he was still honoured for what he achieved. He told stories about the importance of time to young villagers, and these stories also spread widely, encouraging more and more people to start cherishing time.
9. Over the years Rohan's ~~started~~ understanding of time changed dramatically. He was able to manage time effectively, eliminate distractions, complete tasks that he earlier always put off. He also realised that time was not just about accomplishing tasks. It was also about spending quality time with family and friends, about relationships.

10. The ultimate lesson of the story that was conveyed to everyone was surely connected with time. Time is a limited resource and people have to cherish every second that is spent.

Lots of people even leave the cities just due to this fact. Thirdly, the friend might be annoyed by constant queues and endless traffic jams.

Task 8.

I was asked to analyze and comment the pie diagram ^{called} ~~about~~ "Teen Social Networking Stats".

To begin with, nowadays technologies and Internet are fast-developing and ~~they~~ ~~be~~ are becoming more and more convenient every day. That is why most of teens are on social networks, and half of them chat every day.

As for the rest of the points, they are connected with popularity of social networks. The least popular one is Twitter, while Facebook is the most popular. Most of Facebook users are teenagers, & so that they easily get on with each other, and that is why an average teen has 201 Facebook friends. Facebook is getting more popular, it is being logged on to ~~by~~ up to ten times a day. Some of Facebook users are under ten years old, as it is their first social network.

To conclude, social networks are really important and quite popular among nowadays teenagers.
