My friend said that she hates living in a countryside. Honestly, I was surprised, as living there always was our dream. However, she confidently described her position.

Well, she said, there are two global cons. Firstly, owning a house in a village means spending the major part of the day in driving somewhere. Secondly, being unable to order any delivery due to no navigation near the countryside is truly weird.

Anyway, I still want to enjoy such experience.

All the teenagers have different daily routines. However, there are some key things which they do ^{more} ~~fewer~~ or ~~more~~ less often.

Actually on presented diagram the most popular daily teenagers' activity is sleeping. In my opinion, this point is rather understandable, as due to hormonal transformation and a large amount of stress, teens become tired faster.

The second activities on popularity are studying and eating. Personally, I'm proud of modern teenagers because they strongly realise the importance to be educated person. Consequently, they spend on studying a lot of time. As for eating popularity, ^{I think} it's reasonable due to it's biological necessity.

The least popular types of activities mentioned, appear to be teen's hobbies. So, for it only free time is available. As for me, it's strongly restricted.

To sum up, I believe, that teenagers' daily schedule is based idea to balance between all the life spheres.
