Task 8.

Here we have a pie chart, showing us the statistics of teens, using Social Networks. Let's look on them.

As the statistics shows, the majority of teenagers (73%) are registered on social networks. Almost a half of them (37%) send messages to friends every day. Moreover, 22% of teenagers log on to Facebook over 10 times per day. The numbers are huge. A Quarter of young people log on to Facebook every day, but ~~Facebook~~ Facebook is not even the most popular social network in this world - we shouldn't forget about the Instagram, Twitter and so on. The main part of communications ~~now~~ exists here now.

In conclusion I can say that the influence of the Net is extremely big: it's like a snowball, rolls and goes further, takes more snow with itself. Statistics shows that the 25% of Facebook users are under the age of 10. Firstly, Networks grabbed the teenagers, and now it parasites kids.
