Task 1

- 1) Mr. Gupta gave a special advice to Rohan. Mr. Gupta reckoned, Rohan ~~sch~~ should know this laziness off, so he wanted Rohan not to waste each life opportunity, value the time and manage it.
- 2) He changed himself dramatically. Rohan started to organize his day, prioritize his tasks and choose special time for different activities.
- 3) He discovered hidden towns and was ~~stuccet~~ successful overall.
- 4) By getting ~~att~~ older, Rohan realised that life is a pleasure gift and the power of time is enormous, so no one ~~ea~~ should waste it.
- 5) Rohan was famous for his remarkable achievements and wise use of time.
- 6) People began to understand that time isn't an infinity resource, it is a treasure, a special gift, everyone should ~~be~~ use wisely as much as possible.
- 7) Rohan and Mr. Gupta both played pivotal roles in the transformation of the village.
- 8) Rohan was eager everyone just to value the time, use each opportunity and not to underestimate the power of time and life overall.
- 9) Rohan's story made a huge difference in people's life priorities and seriously affected on their future. But, surely, only in right positive way.
- 10) Life isn't just a fantasy, it's a pleasure gift and time is a special treasure, everyone should be immensely grateful for.

Task 7.

I hate living in the countryside. The thing is, I'm an extremely ambitious person, so I'm eager to ~~reach~~ make all my ideas ~~and~~ become true and follow my plans. Unfortunately, living in countryside dramatically stops all my dreams, because in that area I can't get as many opportunities as in the city, and use them to become successful and achieve all my goals. What's more, in the city I can meet useful and extraordinary people, who may help me to build my future career.

Task 8.

Myriads of teenagers from all over the world live their lives and build their time as convenient as possible. But is their timetable right?

Teenagers spend most of their time sleeping. That doesn't seem as a surprise. There are a great number of tasks, goals, problems, and questions they should deal with. So, obviously, they often don't have enough time to sleep as much as ~~need~~ necessary. They also spend 15% of their day time ~~and~~ 15% - studying. Personally, I don't reckon it right to waste 10% of the day playing videogames or surfing the Net. On the contrary, teenagers can pay more attention on doing homework or sports. If they pay only 5% of their time on videogames and 5% on being online, they will have more time for studying, sport activities and also they will spend more time with their family members. That change can make a big difference in teenagers' lifestyle.

Phoning and texting so long a day isn't good alongside meeting friends, going out together, having fun or getting new knowledge, talking face-to-face, hugging or provide support to each other in real life is much better than sitting in front of the computer screen or chatting online in messengers.

Teenagers should be responsible for their future and think about building their time wisely. So I'm eager everyone to be careful with time, not to waste it and pay more attention on studying and the quality of health.
