Task 7

Your friend may want to live in a more modern society. It is a fact that countryside is not as modern as cities, so it can't provide the same opportunities and technologies as in cities. 36

Countryside has a lower education quality. Maybe your friend has big dreams and here is no way in achieving them in a place where she or he lives. 64

And, as for me, I would be annoyed by countryside's mosquitoes and other creatures.

Task 8

Scientists have done a research to see daily activities of teenagers and provided a pie chart. When I looked at it, I wasn't satisfied with what I have seen.

Almost 30% of the day teenagers spend in their mobile devices or playing videogames. 15% are studying or doing homework, other 15% are eating. The rest 30% are sleeping, and there's only 10% left which goes for doing sports. I don't think this is fine. Do you?

In my opinion, modern teenagers can't manage their daily routine and decide what is important for them and what's not. To make some positive changes they need to understand that nobody can buy wasted opportunities and time, so we shouldn't waste it.

I want to finish my thought by saying that if we want to make a difference in younger generation, first, we must change ourselves.
