Task 7.

In my opinion, there are countless reasons against living in a big city. To begin with, she might have thought that living in such a noisy place is not her cup of tea. In addition, big cities are crowded, especially in busy hours. Another thing is that the bigger the city the higher the rent. Lastly, ~~if she needs to get somewhere on time then it is not guaranteed~~ that she will get where she needs on time. This is because of the huge traffic.

Task 8.

~~The goal of this essay is to analyze teens' social~~

The goal of this essay is to analyze teens' social networking. I have found some data on this topic.

The pie chart shows teen social networking stats. The majority of teens are on social networks (73%). ~~It is no surprise to me.~~ It comes to no surprise, because social networks have long become ordinary in our lives. It is also shown that the average amount of Facebook friends for a teenager equals 201. This might be because communicating through social media is quicker than meeting ~~in real life~~ up in real life.

After further analysis, I have noticed that only half of teens who are on social networks send messages to their friends ~~every day~~ (37%) daily (37%). One possible reason for that, is that teenagers meaninglessly scroll through posts to kill some time.

In conclusion, social networking has ~~really~~ strongly affected our daily routine and became something that we can not imagine our life without, making the changes of recent generations' behavior very noticeable.
