Task 7

Big cities have lots of advantages, such as more job opportunities, higher wages, better education and infrastructure. But they also have some serious disadvantages. These are: bad ecology, high prices and an extreme pace of life. You may not find lots of healthy food in supermarkets. Also, in big cities you have to be very competitive to reach success. So, if your friend seeks peaceful and slow-paced life, it's natural for her to dislike big cities.

Task 8

Nowadays many parents are worried that their children spend a lot of time on the Internet. In this essay I will try to find out the possible reasons for that.

According to the diagram, almost 75% of teens are on social networks. Nearly half of them send messages to friends on a daily basis. 22% log on Facebook over ten times per day and an average teen has over 200 Facebook friends! It seems like teenagers prefer social networks to real life activities.

So what are the reasons for this change? Of course, smartphones and computers have become a part of our lives. But I think the ~~pl~~ problem lies deeper within. Many adults use social networks themselves and spend less time with their children. Some of them even let their small children use them! For example, 25% of Facebook users are under the age of 10! With attitude like that, there's no surprise teenagers behave this way.
