Task 4.

Once my friend said to me that she hates living in a big city. She might actually have a point.

At first, megapolises are extremely loud. Millions of people talking, thousands of cars driving and honking at the same time. Speaking about cars, they are the main reason why cities are very polluted. Countryside air is much cleaner and healthier.

To sum up, there are both advantages and disadvantages of living in a big city.

Task 8.

On the pie chart given there are shown teenagers' social networking statistics. This diagram gives some topics to discuss.

As can be seen, about 73% of teenagers use any kind of social networks. 34% of teenagers ^{daily} message to their friends. By the way, the average number of friends a teenager has on Facebook is about 200. The chart also shows that there are 25% of Facebook users which are under the age of 10. The chart still has some information left, but it is not that important.

Based on the numbers represented in the results of the research there can be made a statement. Because of the technological progress there happened a lot of changes in the young generation's life. More and more teenagers surf the Internet everyday and discover the joy of free communication.

To sum up, I would like to say that there is no need to fight with future. Get on with it and enjoy!
