Task 8

Daily routine of a teenager involves many activities. What are these activities and how much time does each of them take?

In my opinion, the time spent on every activity depends on its importance and I would like to prove my statement.

The largest part of the diagram is occupied by sleeping. It ~~takes 30 percent~~ This activity is physically important for teenagers because sleeping has a big impact on ~~one~~ ^{their} health. A healthy sleep usually lasts from seven to eight hours.

Two more categories which take smaller parts of the diagram are eating and sleeping. Eating is also physically important, but takes less time than sleeping because teenagers have from 3 to 4 meals a day. Concerning studying, this activity has a great importance as education helps people to make a successful career. That's why teenagers spend quite a lot of time on it.

The activities left are less important and may be called hobbies. So teenagers spend less time on them.
