Task 7

Probably, I can understand why her opinion of big cities is so low.

Firstly, living in a huge city means constant traffic jams, car honking at night. The street noise and the waste of time can drive you crazy.

Secondly, poor environment due to toxic fumes emission as well as general pollution beats your health as well as general pollution.

Lastly, it can be about lines everywhere you go. Giant crowds of shouting people can be disturbing.

Task 8

Nowadays lots of teenagers use social networks. A pie chart is given showing teen social ^{net} working stats.

The Biggest sector tells us that 73% of youngsters ~~are signed up~~ in social networks. Almost 40% of those ^{have accounts} ~~text~~ their friends every day. Probably, they use social networks to discuss or share something. ~~and so on~~ Twitter is not exactly popular among American teenagers, because only 8% are using it. Possibly, Facebook is more widely spread as an average teen has 201 Facebook friends.

What is more concerning is that quarter of Facebook users are under the age of 10. Instead of enjoying ~~their~~ childhood ~~or~~ or learning something, children waste their precious time surfing the Internet. I suppose that youngsters below the age of 12 should not be allowed on social networks or their screen time should be limited. If they demand to communicate with their friends or relatives it is better to use phone or messengers.
