Task 1

1. I think this poem is written for poet's lover. I think so because the plot of this poem is romantic and dramatic, since the poet is telling about his feeling to someone, with whom he wants to share dreams.
2. The poet of this poem wants to spread his dreams on someone's feet, but he understands that he is poor and he has got only his dreams so his fate is not to be with someone he really wants.
3. I think that while lyric character is talking about his desires he is in a darkness. Maybe it's dark outside and the golden and silver light might mean the belief of the poet for good future. Or the author in a dark room and he can see the lights of the Sun and the Moon (silver and gold) Half light means worries of the poet.
4. The last line means that the poet understood his destiny and that it is impossible to fulfill his dreams, so the possible solution is just to forget about it and live alone.

"A Misadventure Turned Adventure"

Once upon a time Daisy decided to go for a camping. She took with her Mike and his dog. They had been planing their trip for hole week. The day of camping came. They hired a car and went on the road which was near the forest. After three hours of driving they stopped for a Break. They opened a box with food and while they were eating, Ricki, the dog of Mike was playing with his toy which looked like a Bird. When they finished their lunch they understood that Ricki had vanished. For 2 hours they were searching for him but they have just found his toy. Unfortunately, it became dark and they forget the way to their car. So they were alone in a Big forest. Nevertheless, they found a cave where they decided to stay. Next morning they found some Berries for a Breakfast and started to search the right road to their car. They were tired but at the same time excited of such wild and exotic adventure. Finally, they found their car! Surprisingly, they found Ricki sitting near the car playing with a real Bird! Guys were shocked because of it. They had spent one day for looking him and he was just sitting under the car. Ricki misunderstood his toy with a real Bird and left his toy somewhere. Because of it guys though that he went away since Ricki always play with this toy and never left it.
