Task 7. Задача 7.

Living in a big city is difficult. I hate overcrowded streets, parks, buildings and buses, especially in the morning, when I need to go somewhere. Adults are going to their work, students are going to schools and because of that there are terrible traffic jams everywhere. Moreover, big cities are always noisy and polluted. Living somewhere in the city, where it is quiet and clean with no people around is expensive. So, I'm not into big cities.

Task 8. Задание 8.

Teenagers can't imagine a world without social media anymore. They use it mostly to ~~too~~ communicate with friends, but how often do they use social media? What waits us in the future?

Let's look at the Teen Social Networking Stats. As we can see, 73% of teenagers use social networks, 37% of them chat with friends every day, 8% of American teens use Twitter, 22% of teenagers log on to Facebook over 10 times a day, 25% of Facebook users are below 10 years old and the average teen has 201 Facebook friends.

These stats tell us that teenagers love to communicate with friends. Obviously, in the future the amount of teens using social media will increase, because they won't stop enjoying social networks, there will be more teens, new platforms to chat, new opportunities and many new activities. Will it affect us positively? Who knows? Social media is good, but nothing compares to real life communication.
