Given pie chart illustrates teen's usage of social nets and shows that a majority of them — 73% exactly — are on social networks. 37% of them message their friends every day and 8% of American teens use Twitter to do it.

In contrast to mentioned app, Facebook has a larger popularity among the teenagers. Since 22% of them log on to Facebook over 10 times per day. ~~22%~~ of the whole amount of this app's users are under the age of 10, and an average teen has 201 friends on it.

According to statistics the main part of teenagers have the accounts on social media in the twenty-first century. Moreover, Facebook is more widely used by them in comparison with Twitter that could be influenced by the more facilitated interface of Facebook.

This tendency is a result of technology progress and consequent availability of social networks for the young part of population.

Task 4

Nowadays the amount of people for whom living in the city is not a privilege but an annoying factor is growing.

Most of the reasons are related to ecology situation, since the variety of manufacture that are located in the cities pollute the air and worsen health.

In addition downtown's citizens are likely to live in the flats that means having neighbours. Probably all of them may be noisy sometimes that is an obvious distraction from a private life.

Consequently the attitude towards city life depends on his lifestyle.
