Вариант 1

Task 1.

Adult, average, colleague, moral

Task 2.

I saw a fox, staring at me helplessly. I heard it roaring, which made me think the creature was in pain. I noticed its neck's fur was in blood.

At first I felt like running away, due to the fact it could hurt me. However, I felt guilty and determined to help the creature.

I calmed down the fox and washed her neck with the lake's water. Then I took my scarf and fixed its neck to reduce the pain.

I heard somebody crying. The sounds were getting louder every minute. Finally, I saw a boy, sitting on the grass and crying hysterically.

I felt miserable and sad, because the boy looked so abandoned and lonely. He stopped crying, so I calmed down fastly.

I asked him how did he manage to appear here. As he couldn't tell me anything, I gave him my phone so he could call his parents.

I saw dark clouds covering the sky. I heard a thunder and understood, that the storm was about to happen.

I felt scared and frustrated, because there was no place to hide and wait until the storm would finally end.

I hurried up, but the rain had already started. I decided to run as fast as I only could to leave the forest safely.

Summary

It was the walk I would never forget. The fox was no more in pain, a child was connected with his family again, I did manage to get home safely despite the terrible storm. I never felt as proud of myself as I felt that day.
