Task 4.

2) At the back of her mind she hoped that it was a big joke, and that prankers would be found, sooner or later. Clara wasn't ready for this information and thought: "Well, the welcome message has been checked, and everything is correct. If there are any mistakes, I wouldn't get any messages". She couldn't turn a blind eye, so she admitted this fact and accepted the offer.

4) Later, Clara told her friends about having a chance to go on the exchange programme. However, they were jealous and didn't congratulate her. As for teachers, they were unhappy too. In their opinion, Clara was a lazy pupil, because she had skipped some lessons before a vacation.

Clara was hectic, she believed that everything should be done in one go and on the verge of other's minds.

6) Nevertheless, Clara realized that she didn't need to take it for granted. She told herself: "I must prove that they all were wrong! I will have been successful by the end of the year!" She set her goal and got ready for the exchange programme. She was straightforward to achieve it. Clara had been dreaming about this rewarding moment for the rest of the time.
