Paragraph

If Oliver had not received that email, he would have continued his dull routine. He had worked at the firm for a decade without any recognition. Such a chance only comes once in a blue moon, and he felt he was finally in his element. However, leaving his stable job was a risk. This sudden realization was the final straw that broke his hesitation.

Paragraph 4.

Since starting the new project, Oliver has been working day and night to prove his worth. Never had he imagined how difficult it would be to adapt to this fast-paced environment. He struggles to make ends meet because the initial costs of relocation were high. By and large, the team is supportive, but the pressure is immense. He refuses to look pathetic in front of his new colleagues.

Paragraph 6.

Looking back, Oliver realizes he can't not have known how much this choice would cost him emotionally. He is constantly checking his old colleagues' profiles, which is starting to exhaust him. They work in a posh office now, while he remains reluctant to admit his regrets. He feels others tried to take advantage of his ambition, leaving him more isolated than he ever was before.
