Task 4:

Paragraph 2:
A company reached out to him with a job offer that was in his element. He hadn't made the cut a few years ago, this is a once in a blue moon opportunity. Bitter thoughts overpowered him: "If only I had studied more diligently, then I would have made it!" This was the final straw for him to really consider it.

Paragraph 4:

All risks considered, he knew he had to make ends meet. In his current state, he was pathetic and stability did not make up for minimum wage! Really terrified he was, he still had to step up as the bread winner for his family. By and large, he was leaning towards attending the meeting rather than missing out. And so, he finally made a decision to go next morning.

Paragraph 6:

"I could have taken advantage of this years ago, dang it!" he exclaimed. Ever since his initial failure, they simplified the requirements to fit in, nobody in his place would be reluctant. But no, he thought ~~that~~ "I'm doing fine." Years of hard work instead of just push push with the paper work for a job of his dreams. He signed it without a second thought, now he is set for life.
