TASK 8.

2) When you're driving your car you always see various advertisements. One of them could be "reduce speed now". I think nowadays it might refer not only to car or motorcycle drivers, but also to electric bicycle drivers, who often speed and sometimes even ran over people. As I see it, people could listen to this advertisement because of its short and simple phrase, which might make people do what it says.

Overall, I would recommend placing such adverts not only on highways, but also near schools or other children organisations. This way, we'll make our community a safer place to live.
