Task 4

Paragraph 2:

Once in a blue moon Oliver checked his email account just to ensure he hadn't missed anything. When he opened the surprising email, Oliver was confused. He didn't want to be in someone's element. If he hadn't read it, he wouldn't have realised how boring his life was. And the final straw was that he decided not answer the email. He needed time to think.

Paragraph 4

Never has he ever had any problems with sleep. However, that night was an exception. He has thought about the proposal a lot since he received it. He hasitated. If he agreed to join a project, he wouldn't be able to make ends meet. Such behaviour would be considered pathetic, no one would understand him. Suddenly he got a strong desire to catch that chance by and large.

Paragraph 6.

Even though he was afraid of life changes, he was also eager to take advantage of them. Finally, Oliver accepted the proposal, joined the project. After some time he realised he could've done it earlier. He is always being so scared of making essential decisions! His reluctant behaviour leads to a boring existance and nothing else. Despite all the disappointments, Oliver felt happy. He wasn't a posh anymore.
