Task 4:

Paragraph 2:

Clara had turned a blind eye at it at first, thinking that it was some sort of prank. But for the rest of the day the international exchange programme offer ~~was~~ have been sitting at the back of her mind. She was well aware that she is going to have to ~~make a final~~ ^{make a final} decision sooner or later. Tired of constant overthinking, Clara decided to agree to the ~~part~~ participation and see what would come out of it.

Paragraph 4:

The classmates' words had really hurt her. Clara was on the verge of crying after she had heard the crude phrases thrown in her direction. She did want to participate and she did want to succeed. That alone made her ^{feel} motivated enough to want to ~~pro~~ do something in order to prove her worth. And so, she wrote a huge ~~to~~ letter to the programme, describing in detail and with passion why does she wish to participate and why she should be the one chosen for it. The answer came soon enough. Clara was officially accepted -

Paragraph 6:

Suddenly the whole thing stopped ^{feeling} ~~being~~ so rewarding after people at her school started treating her differently. She told her mother about her worries. Mom was straightforward in her answer, not wanting her ~~stay~~ daughter to miss such an opportunity. She said that the classmates' distant behaviour was a result of their own envy and it shouldn't dim her light. Even though she did win ~~it~~, she shouldn't take it for granted and should always remember the effort that it took to get to where ~~she~~ she was now.
