- You might see this advertisement in different places, for example, you can see it stretched along the road, or maybe somewhere on the streets and possibly even in the town square.
- The advertisement may refer to people of different ages, such as teenagers, young adults and even to the elderly.
- People might take this advertisement into consideration, because it is not often, that you see a command-like advertisement out on the street. These type of ads are eye-catching and make people wonder, "Why do they want me to slow down? It must be important!".
