The advertisement "Reduce Speed Now" can probably be seen on a countryside road, somewhere far away from the city. It can promote a big grocery shop, which in the above-mentioned area can be few and far apart. I believe that this sort of advertisement will certainly attract drivers and even bike riders, because after a long journey they are tired and can stop to have a break and eat something.

Moreover, while going to the country house people can buy food for a whole week in one go.
