Task 4:

Paragraph 2

She couldn't just turn a blind eye to that programme. Moving to another country would be her perfect getaway from all the school stress sooner or later. In several hours, the programme had already been at the back of her mind until Clara met John, who told her, "You've never been offered ^{any} ~~something~~ so cool, if you had accepted this offer earlier, you would be chilling somewhere abroad now!"

Paragraph 4

Overhearing that discussion did motivate Clara to confirm that programme. She had been on the verge of mental breakdown feeling hectic for days, ~~but~~ but she did it in one go and applied for it. Her happiness knew no boundaries. One morning she got a call from someone, "Hello, you are accepted to be a part of the exchange programme." All members of her family were really proud of her.

Paragraph 6

Her classmates said, "Clara takes everything for granted, she must have applied for it for fun," but not everyone knew ~~that~~ she would study day and night to be added to that private online group. Clara put out a straight-forward idea "If I need it, I get it". She came back home and thought, "By the end of the month I will have finished school. It's been indeed rewarding experience."
