A: Are you doing anything tomorrow Ren?

R: Actually, no, I thought of going out with my friends, but they^{all} are ~~at~~ busy tomorrow.

A: Aw come, would you like to go to the pool then?

R: Are you sure you want to go ~~to~~ there ~~to~~ after the incident?

A: Aw, come on! It wasn't that bad.

R: Ashley, you were in the hospital for months after you broke your leg out the pool.

A: Alright; what are you suggesting we do then?

R: Actually, we could go shopping.

2) Reduce speed now

I suppose one can't see this advertisement, while driving near schools or other crowded places. However, I also think one could see it on a highway of some sort.

I think this advertisement refers to the ^{accidents} ~~ones~~ which happen when a driver is driving over the speed limit. Such actions from the driver must be taken seriously, because the driver can hurt himself and others.

I strongly believe people will take this ^{advertisement} ~~advertisement~~ in consideration, because it reminds them of the possible consequences. It would be devastating if drivers hurt themselves or other people.
