Paragraph 2

Clara was not sure whether she could apply for the programme. She has been surprised with such a sudden choice. She wanted to turn a blind eye. Clara also hoped that ~~(the mistake)~~ sooner or later the mistake with her name would be detected and fixed. However, at the back of her mind she didn't want this happen as the programme was a great opportunity for her.

Paragraph 4

However, Clara had already decided to apply for the programme. She did want to be the best in everything. Clara was on the verge of a risk but did it in one go. ~~Hectic~~ Hectic... After that the mistake with Clara's name in an online group was detected but none could do anything as Clara had already sent the form. She was asked to delete it but refused

Paragraph 6

Finally, Clara thought that she mustn't have taken this mistake and her 'luck' for granted. Of course it was a straightforward for her, but... 'By this time next week I will have got something I didn't deserve,' she thought. That was a terrible feeling. Clara decided to delete ~~the~~ her form, quit the online group and talk with teachers. The result of such actions was awarding as she knew - it's correct.
