Task № 4.

A: Animals are fascinating, aren't they?

B: Agreed. What are your favourites?

A: Alligators. I find them magnificent.

B: A pity poachers value their skin more than anything else.

A: Actually, I've heard the government's increased the severity of punishment for the poachers.

B: As they should. They're much bigger of an issue ~~now~~ than they used to be.

A: Are they? I haven't heard anything about them for a while.

B: Absolutely! Check the recent news!

Task № 8.

"Reduce speed now" sounds like a social advertisement put on road signs on the sides of busy multiple-lane highways. Though such kind of advertisement is common during worsened weather conditions, they are often displayed without a special occasion. It is possible that it's directed at people who tend to drive recklessly and go over the speed limit, putting the lives of their own and of others in danger by doing so. The imperative tone of the phrase could impose the target audience into sobering up so they could be more careful and attentive on the road.
