Task 4.

Paragraph 2.

The email offered an opportunity to become an actor. Oliver remembered that before receiving the letter he had participated in an audition. He has always felt in his element performing in front of people, but he was too scared to risk. The team said that was a chance people get once in a blue moon. If Oliver had refused, he would have regretted it. This was the last straw.

Paragraph 4.

Oliver has been dreaming of becoming famous, but had ~~been~~ to make ~~it~~ ends meet being a pathetic office worker. Little did he know an appealing offer of becoming a main hero in a new TV-series will be sent to him. Oliver couldn't stop imagining himself on the TV screen in the episode in which he saves the world with his superpowers. However, at first he had to send an email back.

Paragraph 6.

Could he go back in time, Oliver would have never agree to become an actor. After some time Oliver understood that the agency took advantage of his desire to work hard. "You're always paying me less than I deserve!", shouted Oliver at his boss. Unfortunately, after this he had to return to his work in an office and forget about becoming famous.
