№4 Paragraph 2:

At the back of her mind Clara felt that something was off, albeit the programme was her golden chance to receive top-notch education.

She thought: "I have never been given a chance like that. If only I had got it earlier, I would be in a much better school now." Unexpectedly, a message appeared on her screen. Too busy to reply ~~to~~ sooner or later, she had turned a blind eye on it.

Paragraph 4:

Clara was on the verge of tearing up. She mumbled: "But I do want to participate..." Trying not to sob, she unlocked her phone and came across the message she had received before. It stated that someone wanted to help her to become an exchange student. She only had to share her achievements. Clara's mind was in a hectic state but she accepted the offer and send all of her awards in one go.

Paragraph 6:

She must have made a mistake. Although Clara was accepted, it did not feel rewarding at all. However, her teacher approached her and ~~was~~^{CONFESSED} in a straightforward manner: "It was me who had sent you that message. I have never taken your success for granted. Besides, you will have travelled abroad by the end of the week so go pack your suitcase!" A smile appeared on Clara's face. She was on cloud 9.
