Paragraph 2: Oliver usually received emails once in a blue moon and all of them were from his relatives, so the fact that someone new had decided to write to him surprised Oliver. If the email hadn't been started in an intriguing way, Oliver wouldn't have been so tempted to read it. Right after his name there ~~was~~ ^{was} ~~was~~ written something about opportunities and it became the final straw. Oliver read it.

Paragraph 4: During the whole night Oliver was tossing and his mind was racing. He had always been staying in shadows, even though he knew that it was by and large pathetic. Rarely could he earn enough money for a living and usually struggled to make ends meet. So he wondered: maybe it was finally the right moment to change his life?

Paragraph 6: Looking around the posh building, Oliver realised that he was ready for a new chapter in his life. He was no longer reluctant and even thought to himself: "I'm sick and tired of being indecisive. I am always like that! Now I should take advantage of this opportunity!" Having accepted the offer, the only thing he regretted was the fact that he could have done it earlier.
